

The French government wants to enshrine sexual consent in the law.

Let's see how this is being planned...

Everyone will be protected.

That's honorable, but... how will it work in practice?

Well, we're going to launch a website to collect consents or non-consents.

Simple, Efficient Modern

Partners fill out a form on their phones.

And in return, they get a receipt!"

Consent is valid for 10 minutes.

And there you go! Tada!"

What if we want to do it multiple times?

Well, a form for each time.

Not very practical...

Yes, but you see, one can consent the first time, but not the second, and then again the third time, and so on, so we have to..."

What if there are multiple partners?

Same, a form for each one.

This isn't going to encourage group activities...

'Gotta do what's necessary!

This is all well and good, but what if we don't have a phone?

Ah ha! You won't catch me off guard, we've thought of everything!

There's a paper form in triplicate that you'll need to send by registered mail.

I said to you! we've thought of everything!"

everything!

....

it's for a registered letter...

Yes, I saw. And urgent, of course.

CLOSED

But come on, how does this work in real life?
